Date and time: Feb. 12, 2024, 10:30h - 16:30h

Location: Zernikeplein 7, 9747 AS Groningen

Need for Expertise

Being active in a global market presents companies with opportunities but also risks. EU and national export control regulations require organizations to monitor, control, and report the transfer or export of goods, services, technology/software, data, know-how and products of international cooperation classified as "dual use" (any civilian products with potential military applications).

Why participate?

Understanding of deemed export situations and the risks involved is paramount. Items regulated by export control regimes require knowledge and preparedness for what is necessary to ensure compliance and prevent negative consequences.

Content

9. YUfb]b[ materials.

Dive into the fundamentals of export control at your own pace through our dynamic e-modules. Uncover the nuances of technology transfer, handling sensitive information, and navigating controlled research.

Training on Feb.12, 2024:

Join the training to go beyond the surface, unraveling the complexity of deemed export. Engage in relevant case studies and interactive discussions and gain industry experts insights.
